Child abuse or child maltreatment is physical, sexual, and/or psychological maltreatment or neglect of a child or children, especially by a parent or a caregiver. Child abuse may include any act or failure to act by a parent or a caregiver that results in actual or potential harm to a child, and can occur in a child's home, or in the organizations, schools or communities the child interacts with. Child abuse is when a caregiver either fails to provide appropriate care (neglect), purposefully inflicts harm, or harms a child while disciplining him or her.; Survivors of child maltreatment are at greater risk for physical, emotional, work, and relationship problems throughout childhood and into adulthood. PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: Considerations Consent In most circumstances, the parent of a minor gives consent for the medical treatment. However, in some instances, a minor is able to consent to his or her own treatment, provided that the minor is able to understand the risks, benefits, and potential alternatives for treatment. When you think of child abuse, your first thought may be of a child with bruises or other marks that raise red flags. But the signs aren't always so clear. It can be physical, sexual, or ...
